Lufkin, Texas

Volume XXVI

1967

The 1967 Fang Is Dedicated To You —

The Students Of L.H.S.

Pep rallies, bonfires, football games, classroom scenes, V-Day Activities-----

all are but symbols of the unflagging spirit of Lufkin High School. The embodiment of the spirit is found in each person who makes these symbols live. Acknowledging the vitality, enthusiasm, and loyalty for all that is good in high school life,

the 1967 FANG is respectfully dedicated to you,

the students of L. H. S. -----

The 1967 FANG is proud to present another symbol of the tradition of Panther Spirit---the Lufkin High School seal. The seal incorporates the pine cone representing East Texas' famous pines, a gear signifying local industry, a lamp lighting the way to knowledge, and a panther symbolizing prowess and courage. The school philosophy of "Victory through Diligence" completes the design. This seal---with the school flag, the class ring, and battle cry of "Scratch 'em, Panthers!"-----serves to remind all of us of the challenge, accomplishment, and pride woven through our years at L.H.S.

The common goal of providing the best and most challenging educational situation for every student unites many individuals, each working in a specialized field and offering unique talents.

The school board, the superintendent, the high school principal, and all those who assist them in the day-to-day task of providing facilities and faculty for the hundreds of L. H. S. students are in reality the extension of a community conscious of its responsibility to the youth of the school system.

Variety and Enrichment to Eager Minds

In an effort to provide an enriched program in the study of English, the department this year converted the traditional study of grammar and literature by semesters to a fused study of grammar, literature, and composition. A definite challenge to both faculty and students, the new program is designed to emphasize the role of language in communications in our modern world.

Len Arnett points out the theme of her spring analysis paper to Jamie Bermingham as students in Mrs. Williams' classes hand in the annual literary assignment.

1966 spring inductees Jack Christenson, Bettye Herrington, and Nancy Hedrick look on as Susan Lowe, Charlotte Lewis, and Celia Wirtliff express surprise and happiness at being chosen for fall membership.

Larry Grisham lights the candle representing Scholarship at the 1966 fall induction ceremony. In addition to scholarship, qualifications for membership include leadership, character, and service.

Junior National Honor Society member Luanne Pruitt cheerfully performs her duty as an usher at the annual open house for parents during Texas Education Week in March.

As one of the service projects of the N. H. S., the club holds an Easter egg hunt for children enrolled in special education classes. The members dye the eggs themselves the day before the hunt.

New Student Council officers make plans for the 1967-1968 school year; Mr. Williford inducts President David Kendrick, Vice-President Jimmy Griffith, Secretary Len Arnett, and Treasurer Patricia Parrott in front of the student body.

During the football season, the cheerleaders planned and conducted pep rallies to arouse the spirit and participation of the student body for the Friday night games.

In August of 1966, the cheerleaders attended a week-long cheerleader school at Southern Methodist University where they were given instruction in tumbling, pep rally planning, and boosting school spirit. This experience promoted a new enthusiasm. Eagerly awaiting the kick-off or decorating the goalposts, the '66-'67 cheerleaders were leaders of school spirit.

Coaches Jim Wright, Robert Wagstaff, and Odis

Echols led the Panther B-Team through the '66-'67 season to tie John Tyler for first place in the district.

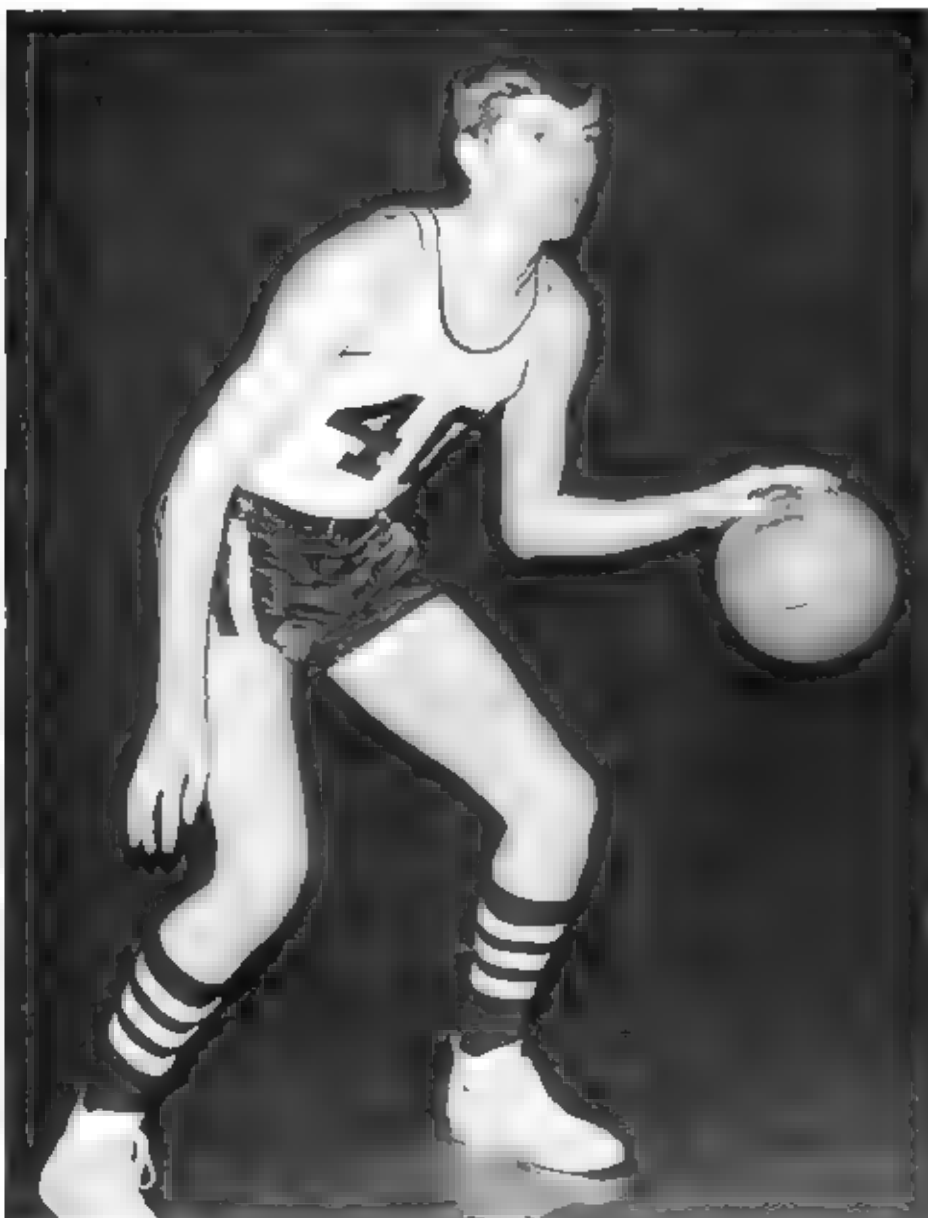

The skill and experience gained in these games coupled with that of the returning seniors make hopes high for a very successful '67-'68 football season.

The 1966-67 season marked an end to ten years of coaching the Panther basketball efforts for Robert Wagstaff.

Biology and Chemistry Students Display Skills in Science Fair Projects

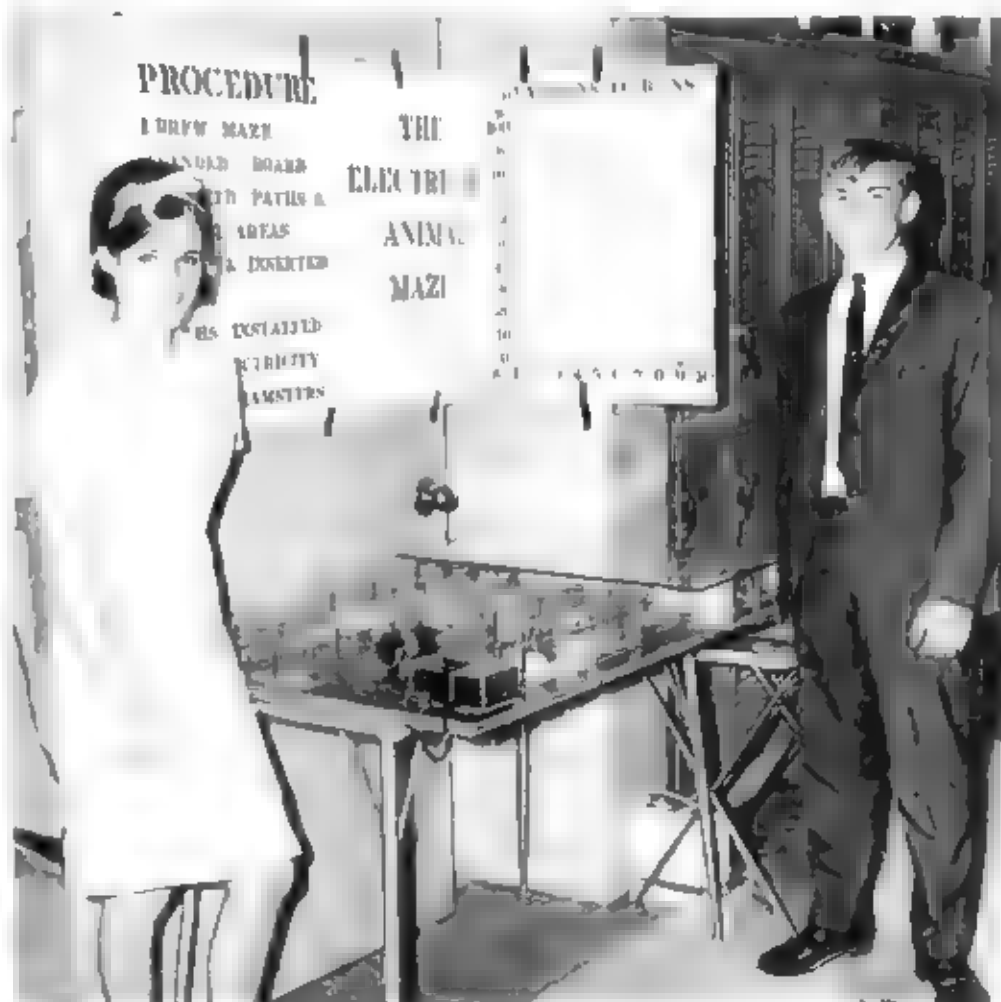

Out-of-town judges Mr. R. Garcia and Mr. J. Richardson announce the final winners.

The Grand Prize for the most outstanding project from both the biology and chemistry divisions was awarded to David Dorsett and Mike Gibson for their technical laboratory preparation of polystyrene plastic.

One of the attractive chemistry projects was presented by Sherry Sanders.

Biology students Ronda Carson and Cooper Castleberry display their Electrical Animal Maze.

Twirp Week Culminated By Memorable Evening At The Annual Valentine Dance

Music for the occasion is provided by the "Sin Stry Soul" of Lufkin. The group plays a popular number for the many students enjoying the dance.

The Valentine arch surrounds the 1967 Valentine King, Mark Conner, and his queen, Janet Milhff.

Taking their place in the court are Steve Smith and Louise Renfrow.

THE KING AND HIS COURT

A quartet from Houston Baptist College provided musical entertainment at the Baptist Banquet, in keeping with the theme of "A Spanish Fiesta."

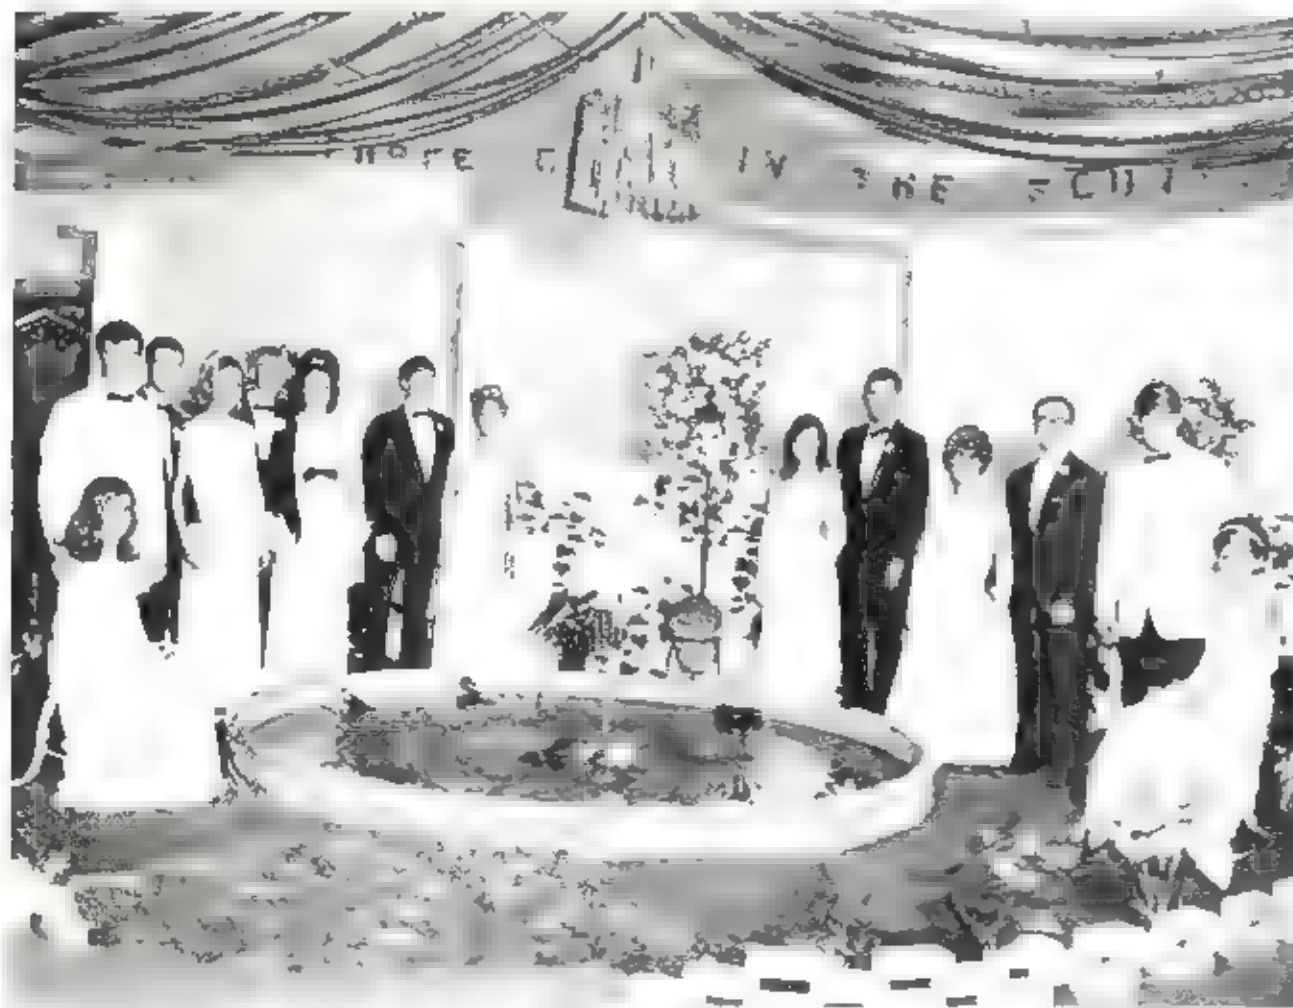

The Annual Baptist and Senior Banquets Were Well Attended By Class of '67

Students and guests enjoyed the Senior Banquet held at the Hotel Angelina at which Steve Smith presented a gift of appreciation to Miss Cook.

"Three Coins in the Fountain" Interesting Theme

Basis of the prom motif attracts the attention of many who attended the Junior-Senior Prom.

Seniors and juniors enjoy dancing beneath a canopied ceiling of star-covered streamers.

To carry out the theme "Three Coins in the Fountain," refreshments were elegantly served by romantic Roman candlelight. Under the direction of Mrs. Thelma Null, class sponsor, juniors spent many hours to transform the cafeteria into the renowned courtyard in Italy.

"Fountain" Provides for Junior-Senior Prom

The lead vocalist with the band, The Sixpents of Houston, entertained to make the dance one of the most enjoyable events of the year.

Douglas Orman, Davilynn Bennett, Nancy Hedrick, Jack Christenson, Pat Riley, and Charles Poland eagerly await the beginning of the festivities.

Dancers gather at the fountain to make the traditional wish.

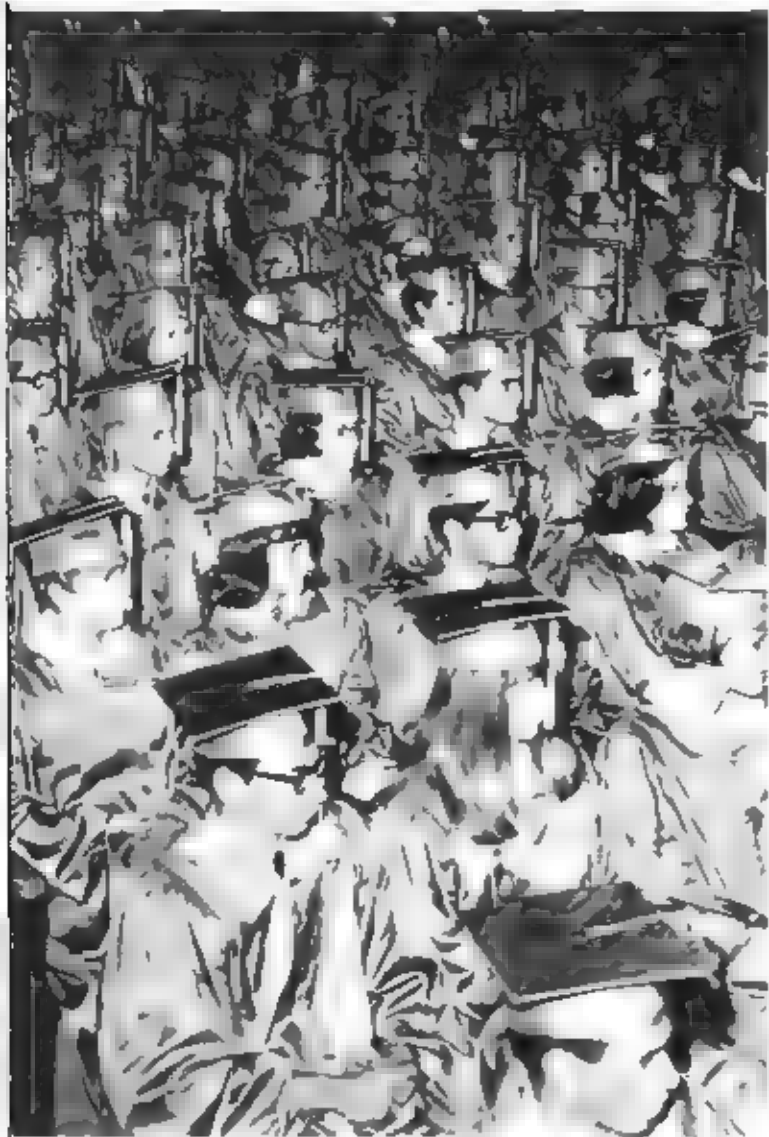

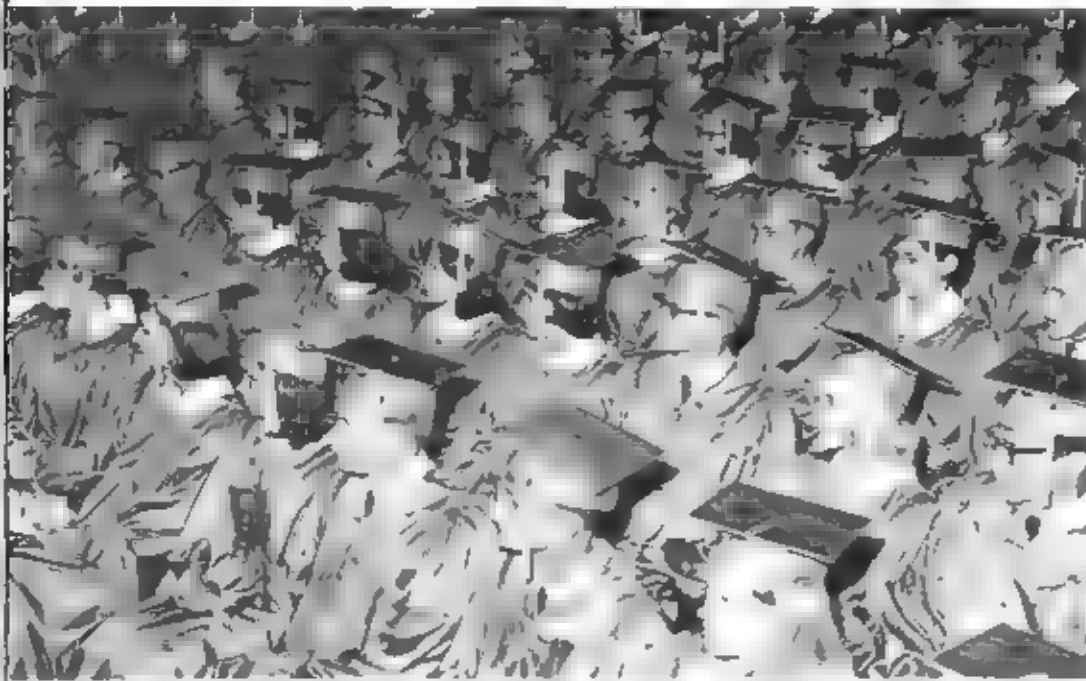

Seniors Present "Carnival '67" — A Merry-Go-Round Of Fun

252 Seniors Graduate In Class of 1967

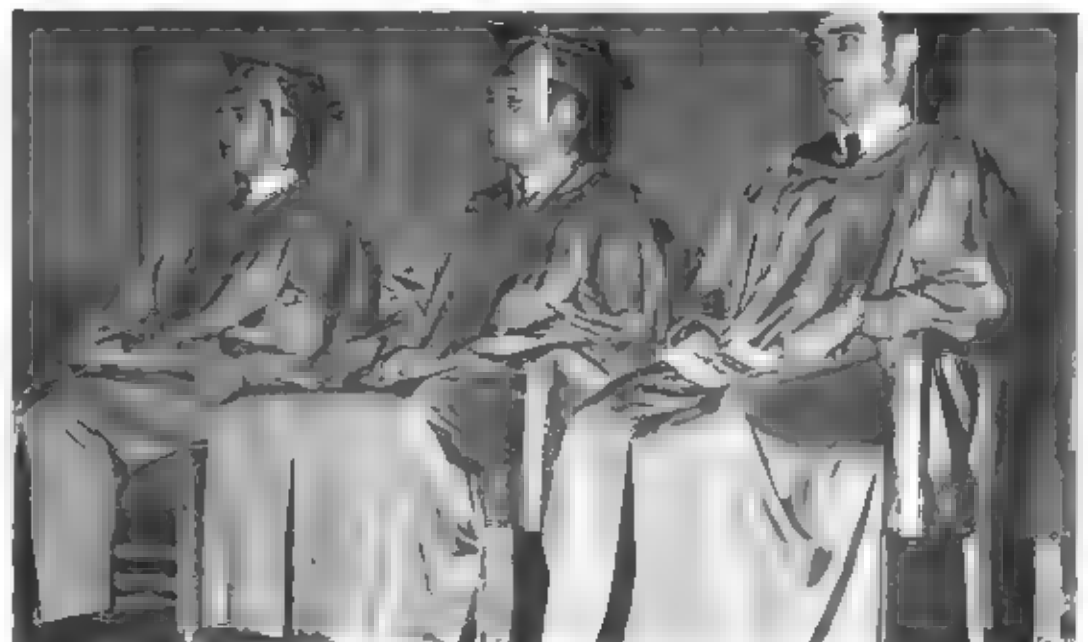

Many hours of preparation were spent at Panther Stadium; however, the commencement exercises were held at Lufkin High School's auditorium due to inclement weather.

Ned Barrett received his diploma from Dr. Groom Shephard, president of the school board.

Nan Massingill played the organ for the graduation exercises.

Bruce Main led the invocation, Jack Christenson gave the commencement address, and Larry Grisham gave the benediction.
